

Michigan search for killer of 8

Police searching for the "Ann Arbor Monster," the presumed killer of eight girls in Ann Arbor, Michigan, arrested a 20-year-old youth yesterday on the vacant site where the eighth girl was found dead on Saturday night. Police spokesmen refused to name the youth, or specify why he was arrested.

The latest victim, Miss Karen Beineman, a student at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, had been missing since Wednesday when she was seen on a motorcycle with a young man. Her naked body was found last night on a vacant site in Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor's twin city. Police have yet to say how she died, but the seven previous victims, all found in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area, were raped, prior to being stripped and then stabbed, strangled or shot.—(A.F.P.).
