Using natural language or Boolean searching, users can type a question, phrase or keyword. You can also search or browse by topic, reference desk, or publication; sort results by relevance, date, file size, reading level, publication, or source; create marked lists; or view, print, or email any document in one easy step.

Other features in eLibrary help save time and make research even easier.

- Topic search locates articles and multimedia resources indexed to more than 18,000 topics. Common topic results, find more documents like this, and search within a topic features guide users to the most useful and targeted resources quickly and easily.
- Reference search gives users the basic subject information they need to start the research process. Includes almanacs, dictionaries and encyclopaedia content.
- BookCarts allow educators to build links to eLibrary content - creating subject pages, student activities, study units, direct connections to specific publications, and more. Plus, more than 170 pre-built BookCarts help educators immediately support the curriculum. View a list of BookCarts at: www.proquestk12.com/go/bookcartlist
- Quizzes the new QuizCart feature enables educators to create multiple choice and essay assessments embedded within a BookCart, or as a standalone quiz. QuizCarts are a great way to ensure students have grasped the key concepts presented in a BookCart or research activity.
