ProQuest databases provide comprehensive research solutions to support advanced study and college-prep curricula.

Inside ProQuest, users will find scholarly journals, magazines, newspapers, and other specialized information sources that cover a wide range of subjects, including business, current events, education, general reference, health and medical, language arts, sciences, and social studies.

Full-text coverage comes from thousands of leading publications, including national newspapers like The New York Times, Los Angeles Times, and USA Today; and exclusive content from the world's top publishers, such as Cambridge University Press, Dow Jones, and more.

Popular ProQuest databases include:

- ProQuest® Central K12, our largest aggregated periodical database for schools. This extensive online collection provides one-stop access to more than 6,100 journals, magazines, and newspapers—with over 4,600 titles in full text.
- ProQuest® Platinum delivers more than 2,000 journals and magazines, plus targeted newspaper coverage highlighting the leading international, national, and regional newspapers.
- ProQuest subject-based collections— offer a variety of specialized collections for in-depth research, including allied health, business, multicultural studies, and technology.
- ProQuest® Education Journals offer periodicals that address all aspects of K-12 education, from administration to instruction, for use in professional development and research.

All this is delivered via the award-winning ProQuest platform, which offers intuitive search and powerful features to aid the entire research process. ProQuest® Smart Search, search widget, article translations, and auto-citations are just a few of the tools that facilitate research from start to finish.

“This database is easy to navigate, with intuitive screens and drop-down menus for help. The wide variety of subjects indexed makes this database a good choice for general research. Summing Up: Recommended. All levels.”

The screenshot shows the ProQuest Advanced Search interface. At the top, there are tabs for 'Basic', 'Advanced', 'Topics', 'Publications', and 'My Research'. Below the tabs, there are search filters for 'Global warming', 'Environmental policy', and 'Citation and abstract'. There are also options for 'Database', 'Date range', and 'Limit results to'. At the bottom, there are 'More Search Options' for 'Publication title', 'Subject', 'Company/Org', 'Person', and 'Location'.

Robust search options connect users to the right content

The screenshot shows search results for 'The Planter's Prospect: Privilege and Slavery in Plantation Paintings' by Laurel Horton, 'The Counterrevolution of Slavery: Politics and Ideology in Antebellum South Carolina' by Charles J. Holden, and 'Southern nationalism' by Charles Oliver Reason. Each result includes the title, author, journal name, volume/issue information, and links for 'Abstract', 'Full Text', and 'Full Text - PDF'.

Connect to a range of article formats, from full text to full images

Research tools like Smart Search, RSS feeds, and alerts foster discovery

The screenshot shows the ProQuest search results page for 'ethical issues of stem cell research'. It features a 'Suggested Topics' section with links like 'Stem cells', 'Stem cells AND Bioethics', and 'Stem cells AND Medical research'. Below that, there are search filters and a list of results, including 'FOUR GENEALOGIES FOR A RECOMBINANT ANTHROPOLOGY OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY' and 'Guest Editorial: Neuroethics-From Neurotechnology to Healthcare'.

In-depth Research Starts Here

Search by keyword, Boolean logic, topic, or publication. Use ProQuest's renowned indexing to construct advanced queries around a subject, personal name, article type, and more. Plus, one-click linking can connect users directly to full-text results, automatically.

Additional tools like alerts, language translations, research summary, and auto-citations help students complete research and assignments.
