Great news! Our school has access to ProQuest Career and Technology, the advanced Internet-based learning resource for students and teachers.

ProQuest offers a depth and breadth of periodicals and search options required for in-depth study. Students can use ProQuest's powerful search options and full-text and article images to target information quickly and easily. Teachers use it for lesson planning, library work, and student assignments.

Teachers are using ProQuest to...

- Provides a wealth of scholarly and peer-reviewed magazines and journals that are the best resources for honors, AP, and IB courses that require student research.
- Provides training in searching and interface navigation methods that are similar to those library resources used in most colleges and universities.
- Integrates technology and 21st Century Skills in a flexible and effective critical thinking activity strategy for all core curriculum areas.
- Keeps textbooks current by providing printing and copying of articles and images for use in classroom discussions and for student notebooks.

Students and parents can use ProQuest to...

- Set up My Research Summary to help users save, email, or print collections of resources that they select from the search results list.
- A formal citation creator converts Platinum citations into a variety of scholarly citation formats for Works Cited, saving time for more critical thinking, writing, and presentation.
- Provides the most powerful searching methods to ensure the best results for current and historic curriculum information needed by students through access to thousands of respected magazines, journals, and newspapers.
- Set up Alerts to keep parents and students up-to-date on special topics of interest. New article links are sent home or to school automatically.
