Comprehensive Index

INTRODUCTION

SIRS Enduring Issues is an eight-volume reference series covering the same topics as the original SIRS Social Issues, Science and Global Perspectives series. Each of the eight volumes—Business, Environment, Family, Global Issues, Health, Human Relations, Institutions and Science—contains 80 specially selected, full-text, indexed articles. A Table of Contents, which lists the article titles in chronological order, and an Index are provided with each volume. All articles are indexed according to Library of Congress. Subject headings can be found at the conclusion of each article to facilitate further research in SIRS print volumes and electronic databases.

Since many important topics are indexed in more than one volume, we have developed this Comprehensive Index to provide easy access to the information. Each entry in this Comprehensive Index directs the reader to specific articles in the individual volumes. The letters BU, EV, FM, GI, HT, HR, IN and SN are abbreviations for their respective volumes: Business, Environment, Family, Global Issues, Health, Human Relations, Institutions and Science. The numbers refer to specific articles within those volumes.

We hope you find this Comprehensive Index to SIRS Enduring Issues 2006 a useful reference tool.

FOOTNOTES AND CITATIONS

The following examples, approved by the respective sources below, are suggestions for citing articles from SIRS Enduring Issues series.

- The first is based on guidelines in A Manual for Writers of Term Papers, Theses and Dissertations, 6th ed., by Kate L. Turabian, University of Chicago Press:

Sample bibliography:

Goodheart, Adam. "Civil War Battlefields." National Geographic, April 2005, 62-85; reprinted in Environment 2006 (Boca Raton, Fla.: ProQuest Information and Learning Company, 2005), art. no. 35.

Sample footnote:

¹Adam Goodheart, "Civil War Battlefields," National Geographic, April 2005, 62-85; reprinted in Environment 2006 (Boca Raton, Fla.: ProQuest Information and Learning Company, 2005), art. no. 35.

- Under Modern Language Association guidelines (MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers, 6th ed.), the bibliography is called "Works Cited," and the above article would be cited as follows:

Goodheart, Adam. "Civil War Battlefields." National Geographic April 2005: 62-85. Environment 2006. Boca Raton, FL: ProQuest Information and Learning Company, 2005. Art. 35.

Instead of footnotes, the author's surname and article number are placed in parentheses within the body of the text. To document the article cited above: (Goodheart, Art. 35). If there are two or more works by the same author in the works cited list, add a shortened version of the title: (Goodheart, "Civil War," Art. 35).

- Under APA guidelines (Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association, 5th ed.), the bibliography is called "References," and the above article would be cited as follows:

Goodheart, A. (2005). Civil War battlefields. In Environment 2006 (Art. No. 35). Boca Raton, FL: ProQuest Information and Learning Company (Reprinted from National Geographic, 2005, April, pp. 62-85)

Instead of footnotes, the author's surname and publication year (reprinted from/reprinted in) are placed in parentheses within the body of the text. To document the article cited above: (Goodheart, 2005). If the author's name is not available, cite the first two or three words of the article's title in quotes: ("Civil War Battlefields," 2005).
